ANTI-QUAY MEN MEET

And Organize to Prevent a Vote Until After Conspiracy Case is Tried.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Republican senators and members who signed the piedge not to take part in last night's senatorial caucus organized today to keep up the fight against Senator Quay until after the supreme court has disposed of the People's bank conspiracy case. The meeting was attended by nearly all the signers and two others who did not sign, but kept away from the caucus.

General William H. Koenbe of Somerset, called the meeting to order a nominated Senator William Flynn Allegheny for chairman and Senator I. Henry of Philadelphia and Representa-tive Robert K. Young of Tioga, for sec-

Senator Flynn said there was no neck essity for helding a senatorial caucus last night and that so long as those who stayed away stood their ground there could be no election of a United States senator. What he wanted was States senator. What he wanted was more light on the pending charges against Senator Quay to ascertain whether he is a proper person to be elected to the United States senate. Mr. Flynn also said that he interpreted the pledge binding the independents to keep out of the caucus to mean that they would not vote for Quay until the supreme court had disposed of the conspiracy cases and that if the senator was not in a better position after this action than he is now, they can not wate for him.

Senator-elect David Martin, of Phil-

for him.
Senator-elect David Martin, of Philadelphia, who will be qualified January 17, when the house and senate will vote for senator concurred in what Senator Flynn said. This was his interpretation of his pledge and he would stand upon of his piedge and he would stand upon this platform. A committee was ap-pointed to take charge of the work of organization. The committee will pre-pare a public statement outfilling the policy and plan of action of the inde-

YEAR'S GOLD OUTPUT. Bhows an Increase of $8,000,000 Over 1897.

Washington, Jan. 4.-G. E. Roberts, the director of the mint, has received from the officials and agents of the buresu the preliminary estimates upon the production of gold in the several pro-ducing states and territories of the United States for the calendar year, 1898. These estimates, although subject to revision, are deemed to be approximately correct.

Nearly all of the states show an increased production. Colorado maintains and increases its lead by a larger addition to its product than in any previous year. The product in California was considerably reduced by prevailing drought, which affected the output of the placers, but the increase from lode mining has slightly more than offset this reduction. Returns are given below and com-pleted with the final estimates for the production of the same states and terri-

JERRY WAS THERE

When the House Assembled Today and Attracted Much Attention.

Washington, Jan. 4.—There were less than 100 members on the floor when the house met at noon today after the holiday recess, but the attendance in the galleries was large, Mr. Simpson, (Pop., Kan.) and Mr. Lewis; (Dem., Wash.) appeared in their places for the first time this session and attracted considerable attention.

The chaplain, in his invocation, referred feelingly to the critical illness of Mr. Dingley, the floor leader, and prayed for his speedy recovery.

Under a special rule adopted before the recess, the house took up the consideration of the bill to define and punish crimes in the district of Alaska and provide a code of criminal procedure for the district. Washington, Jan. 4.-There were less

HOUSEHOLD CARES.

Those of Women, Mr. Billtops Thinks, Are Harder to Bear Than the Business Cares of Mon.

"We all have our cares," said Mr. Billtops, "men and women alike; but I don't know but what women's cares are a little harder to bearthan men's. There is a deadly monotony about household cares that does not pertain to the cares of business.

"The man may lead a routine life, year after year, the same thing over and over again; he may go daily year after year to the same office, store or shop, but the mere going back and forth gives him some variety. He goes through the streets with their constantly changing life; he mets many people daily; he may not know any of them, but it does him good to meet them; they give him new impressions and freshen him up, He may see the same scenes daily, but they cannot be always alike, and he must get more or less benefit from their ever-varying phases.

"But the monotony of a woman's life is far less likely to be varied even in such ways. The man must go out to earn the money to buy bread with; the woman's work is in the house, and her constant tendency is to stay there more and more. Her work is there, and all the time it increases and accumulates. and she buckles down to it and goes out less and less. The routine becomes all the time more fixed and unvarying, and she sticks to it, day after day and week after week and year after year, the same thing over and over again, until it becomes so irksome that it is hard to

"Breakfast, luncheon and dinner, or breakfast, dinner and tea, whatever the routine of the house may be, there is no change. The question, 'What shall we have for dinner?' simple as that may seem, may easily become a bugbear; and the meal times recur more and more swiftly. The mers labor of looking after the food is great, and to that is added the darning and the mending that must be done, and the cleaning and the dusting, all on fixed days and at fixed hours, else they won't be done.

"I imagine that household cares, women's cares, in the routine of life are more burdensome and harder to bear than men's cares. And what is the man's duty in this case? Why, it's to give his wife some relief from this routine. Take her to the theater or to some concert or any form of entertainment. Homely form of relief? So; but estonishingly good, and it will do you good, too."-N. Y. Sun.

CAUSE OF HIVES.

The Cause and Treatment of Thi Mysterious and Distressing Affection.

This most distressing eruption, known medically as urticaria, and popularly also as nettle rash, hardly needs a description, for there is scarcely anyone who has not at some time in his life suffered from it more or less. It consists in the sudden appearance of one or more puffy swellings on the skin, hard and of a whitish or pinkish color, which itch and burn and sting intolerably. Those wheals may be no larger round than a pea, or they may be of the size of a silver dollar or even larger. They usually last only a few hours or a few minutes, but may persist for a day or more. Sometimes they keep coming out in successive crops on the same or different parts of the body. The wheals generally disappear as rapidly as they come, and with them disappears every sign of the eruption, except, perhaps, the marks of the finger nails which the sufferer has dug into his skin in the vain effort to quiet the itching. The causes of hives are numerous, but in the greater number of cases they are referable to some error in diet. Some people cannot cat shell fish of any kind without paying for their indiscretion by an attack of urticaria; others are similarly affected by some kinds of berries or nuts. or by certain drugs. Irritations of the skin by medicinal applications, such as arnics oriodine, by poisons such as that of the nettle or of certain insects, or by the very low temperature, may also produce an eruption of hives. If it is possiple to discover the cause and to remove it, the treatment of urticaris becomes a very simple matter. While the eruption lasts the itching and stinging may be relieved somewhat by bathing the parts in a strong solution of bicarbonate of soda, berax, household ammonia, alconol or vinegar and water. A useful application is carbolic acid, one part in 30 parts of water, with a lattle glycerin. Sometimes an ointment containing carbolic acid, borax or boracic acid, zinc or chloroform is very grateful.-Public Health Journal. Gateau of Rabbit, Take all the flesh from a cold reast rabbit, remove the skin and sinews, cut the meat small, and pound it in a mor-Take half the Beat two eggs and add. Line a mold with this slices of fat bacon, fill with the pounded meat, cover the top with slices of bacon, and set in a moderate oven to bake for half an hour. Take up, remove the slices of bacon, and dredge over with browned grated bread crumbs. Serve with brown sauce and olives .- Housewife.

Fried Oysters.

Choose large oysters for frying. Drain them on a napkin. First roll them in cracker dust, then dip in beaten egg, roll again in cracker dust and fry to a nice brown in hot butter, seasoned with pepper and salt. Three eggs will be required for a quart of oysters. Butter may be added to the pan as needed, but none should be left when through frying. Send to the table hot. Garnished with watercress, curled cress, or paraley. Boston Globe.

AN AMBITIOUS CHIEF.

Storm King Truly Is a Most Accomplished Indian.

Re Hopes to Establish an Indian State and Represent It in Congress-How He Segured His Thorough Education.

Chief Not-Afraid-of-Thunder, or, as he writes himself Storm King, is one of the finest specimens of physical manhood that walks the earth, and he is very proud of his education, which makes him a leader among his people. He is a full blooded Comanche, and from his earliest youth he has devoted all his energies to study.

Beginning with natural talents of a high order, and possessing an extraordinary memory, he no sooner learned to read and write than he almost startled those most familiar with him by the rapid progress that he made in acquiring knowledge. It is said that when a boy he learned the multiplication table in one night; and before he was sent to school he frequently amezed his friends by repeating whole chapters from the Bible, or long newspaper articles, after reading them two or three times.

His father was a wealthy chief and encouraged his boy to learn the white man's books. After the Comanches were settled on their reservation the old chief had the good fortune to meet with Arsayne Beaujen, a Frenchman, who had made plenty of money trading with the Indians.

This old voyager was going back to France to marry and enjoy life beneath the only skies that are bright and pretty in the eyes of a Frenchman, and he offered to take the Indian boy with him to Paris and give him the opportunity to obtain a first-class education. The shrewd old Comanche was pleased with this proposition, and the boy bade his people farewell and started away with his benefactor with the determination to secure a good education.

In less than three months the old Frenchman wrote the Comenche chief

CHIEF STORM KING. "" (The Most Accomplished Indian in the United States.)

that his son was speaking French like a native and was astonishing the many friends he had made by the rapidity and ease with which he mastered everything he attacked. The young Indian stayed in Europe luring w most every great city and was frequently a guest of royalty. The czar of Russia was so much pleased with his colloquial powers and the wonderful knowledge that he displayed in discussing military matters that he gave him a beautiful sword and a sum of money to enable him to pursue his travels and complete his education.

When about to return home the lad wisited England and was so much pleased with the great universities that he attended a series of lectures at Oxford, where he devoted most of his time to the study of law and oratory. He came back to his people about two years ago, bringing with him a library of several hundred volumes. He speaks six languages fluently - Comanche, English, French, German, Spanish and Italian-and says it is no more trouble for him to learn a language than it is for a "child to learn a little song."

Storm King was admitted to the bar about a year ago, and in the management of several important cases he has shown that he is a lawyer of no ordinary ability. He was pitted against the eloquent son of Gen. Sam Houston, a few weeks ago, and after a hot battle, which lasted three days, he won his case.

Storm King still dresses after the custom of his people, and no amount of persussion can induce him to change his ideas on the subject of clothing. "I am an Indian," he says, "and I shall not make myself conspicuous, and probably unpopular, by abandoning the comfortable and picturesque dress of my people."

Chief Storm King expects to start a newspaper in the territory, and says he is writing a book which he thinks will greatly benefit his people. He is devoted to the interests of his tribe, and firmly believes he is predestined to do a great work for all the Indian races and resous them from the dark, inglorious fate toward which they seem to be drifting.

He is developing a scheme to unite all the tribes and form a great state, which he hopes to represent in congress.

Human Game for Assassins. The czars of Russia have been the favorite game of the assassin. The nobles attacked Czar Paul in 1901. Alexander IL was attacked four times before he was finally killed in 1881 by a bomb thrown by a man, who was himself killed, in St. Petersburg. Two attempts were also made on the life of the late car, Alexander III.

Jehovah and the continental congress." Mr. Hitchcock's father went from Vermont to Alabama to practice law, and at the time of his death was the chief justice of the supreme court of that state. Ethan Allen Hitchcock has made St. Louis his home since 1851. In 1860 he went to China to accept a position with the firm of Olyphant & Co., of which the present president of the Delaware and Hudson canal was then the head. In 1874 he returned to St. Louis after a vacation of two years on the continent, most of which was spent at St. Petersburg. For many years he has been at the head of several large industrial concerns and railway corporations. When he accepted the embassy to Russia it was at a keen personal sacrifice of his business interests, but he was not disposed to disappoint the president, who desired to have an able man of commerce at the court of the czar. Mr. Hitchcock is a brother of Henry Hitchcock, who was urged for the supreme ccurt during Mr. Harrison's administration, and is a nephew of the late Maj. Gen. E. A. Hitchcock.

SIR VERNON HARCOURT.

Phe Man Who Has Recently Resigned the Leadership of the British Liberal Party.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, whose letter to John Morley practically Tesigning the leadership of the liberal party is now causing no small comment, succeeded to the headship on the retirement of Mr. Gladstone. Sir William has not been overpopular with the Irish wing of the party, but he has been quite pleasing to the rest of the liberals. He has been a consistent enemy in English politics of the sultan, and as long ago as 1877 he demanded that Turkey, already dead as a state, should be properly buried. Harcourt's speeches and in-fluence have been second only to Gladstone's. In the session of 1880 he was called the "stormy petrel" of the house. He was chancellor of the exchequer in the Gladstone administration of 1885 and has filled other offices during his party's terms in power. Sir William is now 71 years old, but he is still active and keen witted. As a controversialist he has few equals, no superiors. The son of a clergyman, he was sent to Cambridge and there distinguished himself. He first attracted attention with a series of letters to the London Times over the pen name "Historicus." Sir William's wife is the daughter of John Lothrop Motley, the eminent American historian.
